Musical Mention

Musical journals of the current month announce an unusual honor bestowed by Vatican authorities upon Pietro Yon, who, though an Italian by birth, is a naturalized American, making his home in New York city, where he is organist and choir-master of the Church of St. Francis Xavier.

Yon has been elected honorary organist of the Vatican. This is the first time in the history of the Vatican that such an election has occurred. The election took place at a meeting of the Chapter of the Basilica of St. Peter December 21, and the decree signed by Monsignor Mariano Ugolini, dean of the Capella Giulia, was received in New York by Mr. Yon.

Mr. Yon was for two years assistant organist at the Vatican and at the Church of St. Francis Xavier, New York, in 1907. During the last year he has devoted much of his time to concertizing, appearing in more than 100 cities in America and Europe.

Yon is a composer of sacred music as well as of secular works, among the most notable being his Mass, Requiem, and Jubilee cantata for the Chicago diocese. His "Concerto Gregoriano" was played at the Vatican in the symphony under Walter Damrosch's baton in February last. He was born in Milan, Turin and Rome, and at the Academy of St. Cecilia, in the last-named city, he was given the 1906 and 1907 prize medal of the academy and a special prize medal of the Italian minister of public instruction. He is a member of the American League.

The announcement of a special matinee performance of "Samson and Delilah" to be given Friday afternoon at the Washington Opera Company, will be greeted with pleasure by Washington music lovers.

The great oratorio-opera has been given here, and with Mme. Ciesneros, who is one of the best singers of the world, singing the role of the heroine and Nicola Zerola as Samson, will be a happy event in the musical life of the city.

Mme. Ciesneros coached this role with Saint-Saens himself in Paris, and she is coming to Washington to sing the role of Delilah. She is a mezzo-soprano, and so delighted was she with her singing and acting in the role of Delilah that she wrote her as the first singer of that character in the operatic world.

Zerola is well known from his last season's first time in New York. He will be heard here in concert preceding his opera engagement, and all who hear him will be sure to hear his great role of Samson. Hollis Edwards Davenny, who needs no introduction to Washington, will come from New York to sing the role of the high priest.

Charles F. Tittmann will sing the double roles of Abimelech and the Old Hebrew. Other Washingtonians who will cooperate in the great are Herbert Aldrich, Albert Shefferman and Walter Matson. Arnold Volkmann, who will sing the role of the high priest, will also be heard.

Paul Tchernikoff, the young Russian dancer, who is coming to Washington to take charge of the ballet department of the Washington Opera, will also be heard.

Next Friday morning in the assembly room of the Cosmos Club the Friday Morning Music Club will present Mildred Delma of New York in a novel and interesting program.

Mary Helen Howe, soprano, was the soloist at the meeting of the D. M. C. at the National Thrift week campaign. She was assisted at the piano by Marie Howe Spurr.

Next Saturday evening at the Washington Conservatory of Music, there will be organ solos by Edith B. Athey, Lucie and an Italian folk dance in costume by children of Southwest Washington under the direction of Mrs. A. H. Motley.

Mrs. Adele Tittmann will also be heard singing under the direction of Helen Burkart. No cards of admission will be sent, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Auguste Foret of New York was heard in recital Friday morning under the auspices of the Friday Morning Music Club, repeating a program given the week previous at the residence of Mr. Phelps Eno for the benefit of the four and five cent fund.

Mrs. Foret sang the various groups of folk songs in appropriate costume, among them being "Vignettes Bretonnes," "Ave Maria," "The Song of the Sea," "The Song of the Wind," "The Song of the Sun," "The Song of the Moon," "The Song of the Stars," "The Song of the Flowers," "The Song of the Fruits," "The Song of the Leaves," "The Song of the Grass," "The Song of the Trees," "The Song of the Mountains," "The Song of the Rivers," "The Song of the Seas," "The Song of the Skies," "The Song of the Earth," "The Song of the Air," "The Song of the Fire," "The Song of the Water," "The Song of the Spirit," "The Song of the Soul," "The Song of the Body," "The Song of the Mind," "The Song of the Heart," "The Song of the Love," "The Song of the Hate," "The Song of the Joy," "The Song of the Sorrow," "The Song of the Hope," "The Song of the Fear," "The Song of the Faith," "The Song of the Charity," "The Song of the Wisdom," "The Song of the Knowledge," "The Song of the Understanding," "The Song of the Reason," "The Song of the Intellect," "The Song of the Will," "The Song of the Power," "The Song of the Strength," "The Song of the Courage," "The Song of the Bravery," "The Song of the Honor," "The Song of the Fame," "The Song of the Wealth," "The Song of the Poverty," "The Song of the Rich," "The Song of the Poor," "The Song of the Noble," "The Song of the Lowly," "The Song of the Great," "The Song of the Small," "The Song of the High," "The Song of the Low," "The Song of the Deep," "The Song of the Shallow," "The Song of the Wide," "The Song of the Narrow," "The Song of the Long," "The Song of the Short," "The Song of the Tall," "The Song of the Short," "The Song of the Old," "The Song of the Young," "The Song of the Middle-aged," "The Song of the Infant," "The Song of the Adult," "The Song of the Child," "The Song of the Man," "The Song of the Woman," "The Song of the Boy," "The Song of the Girl," "The Song of the Youth," "The Song of the Elderly," "The Song of the Aged," "The Song of the Young," "The Song of the Old," "The Song of the Middle-aged," "The Song of the Infant," "The Song of the Adult," "The Song of the Child," "The Song of the Man," "The Song of the Woman," "The Song of the Boy," "The Song of the Girl," "The Song of the Youth," "The Song of the Elderly," "The Song of the Aged," "The Song of the Young," "The Song of the Old," "The Song of the Middle-aged," "The Song of the Infant," "The Song of
